

Another First 2001 Player of the Week

This was the first year of awarding a player, having an outstanding night. The formula used is the percentage difference over their average. The first 4 weeks is based on their average from last year, then it is based on his current average. This year they were rewarded with ball caps, crested with Player of the Week 2001. Jeff Simpson had the honour of being the first member to win this award. When this appeared in our yearbook, I didn't realize that stars were available on the computer, so I cut them out and overlaid the cutouts over the pictures and then photo copied. At the time I thought it looked pretty good, but now. I know how bad it looked, so I eliminated the stars for this book. "I'm still learning"
