

May 23 2023 Week 4

We are heading into our 3rd week of play and will be looking at team standings to review where teams stand at this point. We do not anticipate major changes in the A and B divisions, but there could be a few to balance the teams. A decision has been made by the executive to change the C Division to 4 teams and the D Division to 6 teams. Main reason for this is to strengthen the C Division competitively and to group together our newer players with players closer to their averages. We'll see what the percentages show us after tonight. Who knows we could have some upcoming big shooters in our midst! So, the C and D divisions will see some realignment for next week. An updated schedule will be posted for next week.
